How Summer Reading Works

Fill out the Registration Form. Paper copies are available in the library or you can sign up online. Once you sign up, you can pick out a free book from the library!

Pick up a Reading Journal for your reading level (Early Readers or Kids and Teens). Reading Journals will be available at the Library starting Tuesday, June 27th, 2023.

Early Reader Journals

Read, sing, play! Color in an image after doing one of the activities listed on the sheet. Every completed journal gets you 1 library dollar!

Kids and Teens Reading Journals

Track your hours read. Every 5 hours read earns you a library dollar!

When you turn in a paper journal at the library, you will get library dollars right away.

Frequently Asked Questions

My kid doesn't know how to read yet. Can he/she still participate?

Yes! Children benefit from reading the day they are born. Reading with your child and participating in other early literacy activities (outlined in the early reader journal) count for summer reading.

I haven't signed up for Summer Reading. Can I still come to the events?

Yes! All Summer Reading events are FREE for everyone; you don't even need a library card! We do encourage you to register and get your FREE book just for signing up!

How long do programs and events last?

We aim for 60 minute programs, but sometimes they run longer.

How are prizes awarded?

Every time you turn in a completed journal at the library, you will receive one library dollar. These can be spent on cool prizes that will be displayed in the library. Think of it as turning in tickets at an arcade!

Can teens participate?

Of course! Teens can track their reading hours and earn library dollars just like everyone else. We also encourage teens to volunteer at our weekly events!
